After the covid stress, the loss of my mother & my husband recovering from quadruple bypass surgery in this year we were close but weary. God answered our prayers for a getaway, and poured goodness into us, refreshed us and restored hope in abundance. We're now excited to see how He will use our marriage instead of simply dreading the next falling cow. Thank you so much for blessing our socks off!! The laughter, togetherness, rest, and relationship retune was just what we needed.

—Wife, married 28 yrs

OMG date night helped is to talk and clear the air which is leading us towards a new beginning. Thank you so much.
—Wife, 12 yrs. married

I think it opened some lines of communication about hard topics that weren't there before.
—Wife, 7 yrs. married

It was what we needed to point out the things that are rumble strips in our marriage so we can get back on the road, so we are driving between the lines.
—Husband, 10 yrs. married

It gave us the time away to really talk and reconnect. I loved the date night "homework." It was a great way to really start off the date night.

—Wife, 12 yrs. married

It gave us tools to become one again.

—Husband, 17 yrs. married

It reminded me to always be my husband's cheerleader. I look forward to a lifetime full of oneness with my best friend

—Wife, 6 months married

It gave us new priorities to work on, gave us some great tools for understanding and talking through our common misunderstandings, and allowed us to check out of our busy lives to focus on each other. We have a clearer picture of what we want closeness or "oneness" to look like.

—Wife, 31 yrs. married

Pastor Comment

We have a renewed sense of vision and mission for our marriage.

—Pastor, 22 yrs. married

Military Comment

Helped us to push a reset button and feel more open to conversation and give us hope for a better marriage. 🚨 It helped open our eyes to better ways of communication and oneness.
