What did it mean to those who came?

Saved us from filing for divorce on Monday!!!!!! Really gave us a second shot.
Husband, married 17 years

Alot!! I get to have one on one time with my wife. That's hard to do with 10 children.
Husband, married 1 year

Preparing my fiancé and I for a Godly marriage
Woman, engaged

We came to this weekend exhausted and disconnected. We are leaving renewed, refreshed and determined to continue on the journey toward oneness.
Wife, married 1 year

We had a hard first night after the couple's check up with some real hurt expressed and resulting isolation. But on Saturday just being present with each other through the sessions the weight of the prior evening dissipated, and we made significant expressions of our desire to return to the vision and path of oneness.
Husband, married 12 years

It helped to reignite and solidify our love, passion and commitment to each other, our marriage and the legacy that we are creating for generations to come.
Wife, married 10 years

Lots of insight, lots of self-reflection on how my actions affect our marriage. My favorite phrase was that oneness doesn't mean sameness…so simple yet so profound.
Husband, married 19 years

I think this will help us regrow together and restore the oneness that has been missing for so long due to 25 years of a grueling work schedule and responsibilities.
Wife, married 31 years

We were able to have great conversations that we wouldn't have otherwise
Wife, married 2 years

This getaway reminded me that prayer is so much more than just a conversation with God. It has the power to change things, even if that means it's just my attitude and boy do I have an attitude ;). I've appreciated the "homework" and the way it sparked conversations I didn't know how to start.
